Prepare Now for the SAT

Penn State Wilkes-Barre's SAT Prep offers high school students an opportunity to raise their score on the SAT. The course provides information on the SAT, and instructs students in proven test-taking strategies to help them realize their full potential on the test. Registration on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Emphasis

With the redesigned SAT®, students will be tested on reading, writing, and math skills. The specific areas tested, according to the College Board, will be:

- Math -- the Heart of Algebra, Problem Solving and Data, Passport to Advance Math.
- Reading/Writing -- Command of Evidence, Relevant Words in Context, Expression of Ideas, Standard English Conventions.

If you are looking at these skills and wondering what they mean, you need to attend our course. We will demystify the test and provide you with problems that will help you prepare for the test.

Instructor

Jes Niemiec has been tutoring SAT and ACT for almost 16 years. Jes instructs both verbal and math, utilizing her communications degree and has a strong grasp of the concepts tested on standardized tests. Over the last decade, she has been tracking the ways in which the test is evolving. Jes continually confirms her ability to teach the new skills that tend to pop up with standardized testing.

Registration & Refund Policy

Advance payment and registration is required no later than two (2) weeks prior to the first class. Due to demand, space cannot be held without payment. Cancellations must be received at least seven (7) business days prior to the first class or the student will be responsible for the fee. The University reserves the right to cancel or post-pone any course due to insufficient enrollment or other unforeseen circumstances, upon which time registrants will be notified and a refund issued.
